

As a member of Valpak's fully outsourced data service, we ensure that on an annual basis Debenhams data submissions both in the UK and overseas are made accurately, on time, and according to each country's obligations.

Expanding the online retail offer has allowed Debenhams to deliver their products to customers across the globe, however the challenge of knowing what environmental compliance regulations to comply with and how is significant. In order to ensure a clear picture of the compliance landscape overseas, Debenhams engaged with Valpak who proposed a risk based monitoring project which allowed the company to assess any new obligations each quarter and ensure compliance in new markets if required.

Valpak's dedicated account manager is on hand to assist Debenhams with any international compliance queries, in addition to registering the company in obligated countries. As a member of Valpak's fully outsourced data service, we ensure that on an annual basis Debenhams data submissions both in the UK and overseas are made accurately, on time, and according to each country's obligations.

Valpak make it easier for Debenhams to comply by using our in house research team to monitor regulations, capture product weights, scope products and communicate data requirements across the globe.

"Compliance to Waste Packaging legislation can be time consuming and heavily data focused. Employing the use of Valpak International Data Management services has allowed us to save time and resource and focus on improving the accuracy of the data we submit each year.

Over the years our relationship with Valpak has grown significantly and we have every confidence that our data submission is in excellent hands and therefore we remain compliant with the regulations in the Republic of Ireland, Germany, France and Spain.

Valpak have a dedicated team who are always happy to advise on any queries. The seminars and webinars they host are an excellent introduction to the legislation and Valpak have often followed up with 1 to 1's meetings with my team to explain the complexities of compliance"
